GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Fire roared through a clothing store in downtown Greensburg Thursday night.

First reports said at least five persons were injured and firemen believed others may be trapped on the third floor.

The fire broke out in Larose Women's Clothing Store in the heart of the business district crowded with hundreds of shoppers.

Philippine Hero
Dies Thursday

MANILA (AP)—Sergio Osmena, who returned with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in World War II and led the Philippines as president before independence, died Thursday.

He was 83.

Officials at Veterans Memorial Hospital said the elder statesman of the Philippines died of heart and kidney ailments.

Calling Osmena "one of the pillars of democracy," President Carlos P. Garcia declared a 15-day period of national mourning.

Rocket Is Fired
To Ionosphere

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. space scientists fired a rocket more than 4,000 miles high Thursday in a study of the ionosphere.

This is a protective blanket of electrified air that not only absorbs lethal radiations from the sun but also serves as a reflector of long-range radio waves from earth.

The four-stage Scout rocket rose from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's launching station at Wallops Island, Va., at 12:38 p.m. EST. Its 94-pound payload of instruments came down an hour and a half later in the Atlantic Ocean, about 4,424 miles away. No effort will be made to recover it.

Facts On Fish
Killing Sought

ASHLEY, Pa. (AP)—The first sampling of mine water was taken at a Glen Alden Corp. pumping station Thursday, and marked for tests in Harrisburg in an effort to determine what is tainting the Susquehanna River and killing thousands of fish.

A decision to sample the water at one station Thursday and at all 10 Glen Alden stations Friday was reached at a meeting of state health and mine officials with representatives of Glen Alden.

The purpose of the meeting, as stated by Karl M. Mason of the Health Department, was "to reach an agreement on regulating the flow of mine water from the mine so as both to protect the river and the numerous fish unaffected by the recent kill, and the active mine workings."

U.S. Infantrymen
Train In Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — American infantry units staged an amphibious landing on the Havel River Thursday in a demonstration of the U.S. Berlin garrison's combat readiness.

Maneuvers of the 2nd and 3rd U.S. Battle Groups were the first since the Communist wall went up around West Berlin two months ago. They were designed as much to bolster the morale of West Berlin's 2.2 million inhabitants as to test the efficiency and alertness of the U.S. garrison. About 3,000 men of the 6,500-strong garrison are involved in the three-day exercise.

At the same time, an estimated quartermillion East German, Soviet, Polish, Czech and Hungarian troops brought their gigantic fall maneuvers right up to the East German border with West Germany.

Gursel Declares
Himself Elected

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey's military leader Gen. Cemal Gursel, declared himself a candidate for president Thursday as the nation awaited official word on who won Sunday's general election.

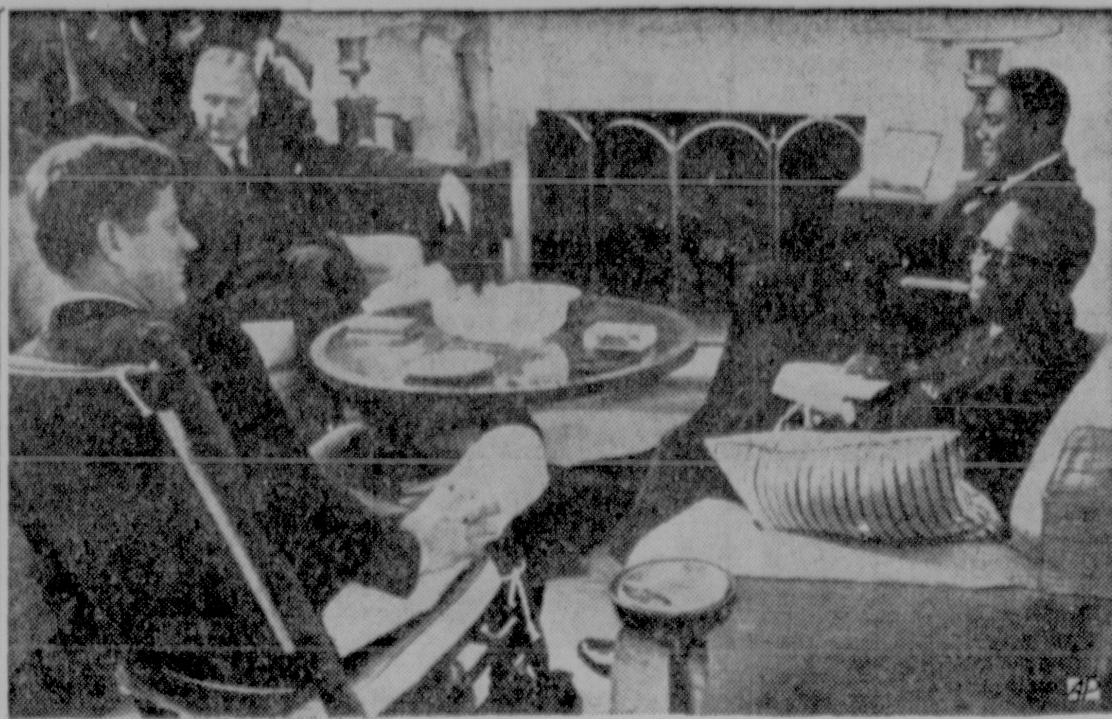

Gursel plans to resign from the army and appear before the new Parliament Oct. 25 as a civilian presidential candidate. The Parliament has power to elect the president who in turn will name a premier and ask him to form a cabinet.

Takes Wrath Out
On Wife's Car

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Two policemen investigating a complaint in the west end of the city Thursday came upon a man lashing an old convertible with a crowbar.

He had already punctured the car roof and broken the windows. He was about to work out on the fenders.

The man, Francis V. Abel, 48, told officer Chester Fasig he had bought the car for his wife, Ruth, but things hadn't worked out and he didn't want her to drive it anymore.

French Authorities Start To Deport Algerians In Airlift

PARIS (AP)—Planeloads of Algerians, many of them nursing bandaged wounds, bruises and scars from battles with police in anti-Communist demonstrations, were shipped home Thursday as French authorities started a deportation airlift.

Security forces, reinforced by about 3,000 riot police and gendarmes, took stern measures to prevent any new turnouts by Algerian nationalists.

One rebel chieftain in Nanterre, scene of a bloody clash Wednesday night, told a Paris newspaper the Algerian campaign in Paris "is just beginning."

Other sources said the Algerians were planning to send thousands of their women and children into the streets of Paris Friday or this weekend in obedience to a call from rebel exile government headquarters in Tunis, Tunisia.

Ford Strike Is Finally Settled

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union finally buttoned up their new three-year contract Thursday just when it looked as if a last-minute, one-plant dispute might shut down newly moving assembly lines next week.

An at-the-plant working agreement, such as supplements the national contract at all Ford's 85 factories, was reached for the Walton Hills stamping plant outside Cleveland, Ohio.

Details were not disclosed immediately.

The Ohio plant is a key in Ford's complex. It employs 3,500 and makes pressed metal parts for all Ford's line of cars except the Lincoln Continental. Shortly before settlement was announced, a Ford spokesman conceded that continuance of a Walton Hills strike would begin shutting down assembly lines by the middle of next week.

Ford said it had back on the job Thursday 113,200 of the 120,000 production workers who walked off the job Oct. 3 to support national contract demands of the UAW. It added that more would be recalled Friday.

Early Reis Retrial May Be Sought In Burglary Charge

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Dist. Atty. Robert M. Harris said Thursday his office would fight any move to dismiss a burglary charge against Lillian Reis and raised the possibility she may be retried as early as next month.

The 21-day trial of the 32-year-old Miss Reis, owner of a Philadelphia night club where she once danced, ended Wednesday night with a jury of five women and seven men hopelessly deadlocked, 5-7 by report.

She was accused of masterminding the August, 1959, burglary at the home of John B. Rich, Schuylkill County coal magnate, when he and his wife were abroad. Rich said about $20,000 was stolen, most of it in jewelry. The prosecution said the loot was nearly a half million dollars.

Miss Reis, free on $15,000 bail, returned to her Celebrity Room in Philadelphia. Her attorney, John E. Lavelle said he might invoke a four-year-old law and ask the court to dismiss the charges against her on the ground evidence was lacking to sustain a conviction.

"It would be our duty to oppose the petition," Harris said. "We certainly believed there was sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction or we wouldn't have brought Miss Reis to trial in the first place."

"We will of course, schedule her retrial as early as possible."

The earliest date may be Nov. 8, the day after election, when a panel of 100 prospective jurors is scheduled to report to the court-house.

Harris said for the defendant to go to trial again that soon would require the removal of a couple of legal technicalities. He didn't say what they were, but indicated they were not an insuperable obstacle.

Should Lavelle ask dismissal of the charge the petition would be presented first to the trial judge, Charles Staudenmeier, and later he ruled upon by the entire Schuylkill County Court.

If the petition weren't listed for argument at once, the issue probably would not be heard until early January. But Harris explained the judges might well consider the petition of such importance that they'd decide on it in time to permit retrial at the start of the November term.

Complications might arise from the circumstances of a new district attorney taking over the first of the year.

Lavelle is running for the office on the Democratic ticket. If elected, he would not be permitted to prosecute Miss Reis, because of what would be held to be a conflict of interest. Nor would any of his assistants prosecute.

It is deemed certain that those deputies would not include Calvin Friedberg, Harris' assistant, who prosecuted Miss Reis and the three men who were convicted of the burglary in two trials last spring. Friedberg is a Republican.

At Press Conference:

JFK Says No Change In Red China Status

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy declared Thursday the United States still firmly opposes letting the Chinese Communists into the United Nations or any of its agencies.

His statement was read to newsmen at the White House by press secretary Pierre Salinger when Salinger was asked whether there had been even the slightest change in U.S. policy on this point.

Salinger said probably the best way to answer was to read a statement Kennedy had prepared for his news conference last week in case he was asked about the situation. Nobody asked him then.

The statement said: "The United States has always considered the government of the Republic of China the only rightful government representing China and has always given full support to the position and to all the rights of that government in the United Nations. Therefore, the United States firmly opposes the entry of the Chinese Communists into the United Nations or into any of the components of the United Nations."

When the question came up Thursday Salinger was told there had been speculation at the United Nations on whether exploration of U.S. relations with Outer Mongolia meant a softening of U.S. opposition to seating Red China in the General Assembly.

The Soviet Union's persistent battle to seat Red China is linked closely with U.N. applications by Outer Mongolia and Mauritania.

After shelving the issue for 10 years, the General Assembly has voted for a full debate on admitting Red China. The United States for the first time supported the move for debate.

But meanwhile, the Security Council will take up on Oct. 25 the question of seating Outer Mongolia and Mauritania. The Russians have declared they will veto Mauritania if the Nationalist Chinese veto Outer Mongolia, as the Nationalists have done previously.

The Nationalists have been reviewing their stand in the light of U.S. pleas that they abstain from voting, as the United States has indicated it would do.

The United States is banking on winning its fight by requiring a two-thirds majority vote by the General Assembly on the Red China question. This is sought by the Americans on grounds that changing representation by China is a substantive question requiring such a vote.

U.S. sources say they are confident of winning easily if the two-thirds majority is required.

Chou Chides Soviets;
Blasts Pres. Kennedy

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Red China exchanged sharp words with Soviet leaders at the Soviet Communist party congress in the Kremlin Thursday and then launched a bitter attack on President Kennedy.

Reports of the affair, channeled out Thursday night through undisclosed sources, indicated the confusion of Communist tongues got so pronounced at one time that Soviet Premier Khrushchev told the audience of 4,500 party delegates to quit applauding Chou.

Some friendly oil was poured on the troubled waters by Chou before he ended his criticism of Khrushchev for his attack Tuesday on Albanian Communist leaders.

At the end he and Khrushchev shook hands in front of the audience, which applauded stormily.

The Chinese premier's speech came at the end of a day largely devoted to attacks on old Stalinists and so-called anti-party people in the Soviet Union. Particular fire was turned on former Premier Georgi Malenkov and an old party warhorse, former Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich.

Details of Chou's attack on Kennedy were not immediately learned.

But he pledged Red China's support for the Soviet foreign policy and its Communist party program while chiding Khrushchev for his attacks on Albania.

He warned delegates to the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress—which Albania is boycotting—that open disputes between Communist parties only aid enemies of the Eastern bloc.

All disputes among Communist parties should be settled by negotiation, he declared, according to informed sources.

Western newsmen were barred from the congress Thursday for the first time since it opened Tuesday, but Chou's speech was reported by the official Soviet news agency Tass.

Propaganda Benefits May
Tempt K To Call Off Bomb

BERLIN (AP) — Prospective propaganda benefits may tempt Soviet Premier Khrushchev to call off his superbomb test, but the feeling in Berlin, eye of the political storm, seems to be that the blast will be carried out.

Khrushchev told the Soviet party congress this week of plans to set off a 50-megaton bomb at the end of this month. Official versions of the speech quoted him with qualification—that the current series of tests probably would conclude with the 50-megaton blast. Some British officials are taking this as a sign he will call off the explosion and urge a new world ban on nuclear shots.

The prospect of the blast has brought a cry of protest from many countries, including the United States.

Ordinarily, this would present an attractive prospect to Kremlin leaders. The test conceivably could be called off as a gesture to world peace, and the Kremlin might stand to gain in propaganda returns.

But, argue observers in this beleaguered enclave of freedom, if the Communists have the bomb they are likely to explode it on schedule.

They reason: Kremlin leaders find themselves in a box, needing a quick political victory over the West to uphold their leadership in the Communist world movement.

One means of achieving a victory appears to be, in Kremlin eyes, a campaign of terror propaganda backed up by a series of nuclear explosions to impress upon the world the might of the Soviet military machine.

There may be other reasons. Observers here, acutely interested in the ins and outs of Communist policies, even see a possibility that Soviet nuclear explosions may be connected with Moscow's current difficulties with Red China.

Stevenson Warns U.S. Will Resume Tests If Ban Fails

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States declared Thursday that unless a nuclear test ban treaty is signed it must prepare to take all steps needed to protect its security, including tests in the atmosphere.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson delivered that warning to the U.N. Assembly's main Political Committee. He challenged the Soviet Union to sign a treaty at once.

"I pray we do not lose another chance to meet this challenge of our time and stop this death dance," he declared.

Just before Stevenson opened debate on the test ban issue six nations most liable to be affected by fallout from Soviet tests made known their intention to put U.N. pressure on Premier Khrushchev to call off plans for testing a 50-megaton bomb.

The six — Denmark, Norway, Iceland, Sweden, Canada and Japan—were reported ready to demand priority in the committee Friday for a resolution expressing concern over danger to world health from such a big bomb test. It contained a solemn appeal to Khrushchev not to test the bomb at the end of the month, as he has announced he plans to do.

A Canadian delegation spokesman denied, however, that Canada had agreed to co-sponsor the resolution. He said Canada still had the matter under consideration.

Stevenson said the United States was prepared to join Britain and the Soviet Union at the negotiating table now.

"But until there is a treaty and tests can be stopped," he added, "the United States, as a responsible nation, must prepare to take all steps necessary to protect its own security and that of the world community."

He said that in self-protection the United States reserves the right to make preparations to test in the atmosphere, as well as underground. Thus far the United States has resumed tests only underground.

He declared that the 50-megaton bomb will "poison the atmosphere by creating more radioactivity than that produced by any series of tests since 1945."

Gen. Taylor Satisfied With
Viet Nam Mission So Far

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor was reported satisfied Thursday a good beginning has been made on his mission to find means of arresting the Communist menace in South Viet Nam.

After two days of conferences with U.S. and Vietnamese officials in Saigon, President Kennedy's military adviser flies out Friday to inspect the jungles and highlands where South Viet Nam's army fights the Communist Viet Cong.

The general was said to feel he had made progress toward finding a formula to turn back the Viet Cong. On his report to the President may rest the decision whether U.S. troops will be sent into this Southeast Asian nation.

Taylor spent most of the day getting a detailed report from U.S. guerrilla warfare experts at headquarters of the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group. The experts told him how the U.S.-trained South Viet Nam army is fighting the Red guerrillas.

Then he conferred with Vietnamese government officials on the country's economic plight, aggravated by serious floods. He got the Vietnamese military view from top generals of President Ngo Dinh Diem's army.

A spokesman said the discussions on this second day of Taylor's visit were broader and got into details of the nation's security and economic problems. On the military side, Taylor was given a report on the rate at which Viet Nam is inducing an extra 20,000 men into the army with U.S. money. He also was brought up to date on training methods.

Hoffa Pleads Innocent To Mail Fraud Charge In Court

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — James Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, stood mute Thursday as his attorneys entered his plea of innocent to the government's charge of mail fraud.

Outside the federal courtroom a few minutes later, one of Hoffa's attorneys charged that the government tapped telephone wires to gather evidence against the union boss.

"The government has not denied using wiretap information in seeking the indictments," said Jacob Kossman of Philadelphia. "We contend this is illegal."

Hoffa and Robert E. McCarthy Jr., a Detroit banking official, were called before Judge Doulos A. DeValle in U.S. District Court to answer a 16-count indictment. They are accused of misusing more than $300,000 of Teamsters

Union money to promote Sun Valley, Inc., which was supposed to be a retirement haven for union members.

It was the second time in a year that Hoffa and McCarthy had pleaded innocent to the charges. A previous indictment was dismissed last July when U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph P. Lieb agreed with Hoffa's attorneys that the grand jurors who returned it had been chosen improperly.

Thursday, Hoffa spoke only once, when U.S. Atty. James Dowd asked him to state his name and age for the record.

"James R. Hoffa, 48," he said.

DeValle gave attorneys for the two men until Dec. 1 to file motions. He permitted Hoffa and McCarthy their freedom under the same $100,000 bonds they posted shortly after the indictment was returned last week.

Scientist At Harvard Gets
Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, (AP)—A Hungarian-born engineer now an American and working at Harvard University, who made a model inner ear and confirmed its workings with experiments on a corpse, won the 1961 Nobel Prize for medicine Thursday.

The award was for his research showing how the human ear hears.

The prize, worth 250,200 Swedish crowns—$48,300—went to Dr. George von Békésy, 62, who once said he became interested in sound because of his fascination for high-pitched gypsy music as a boy.

Von Békésy, pronounced bay-kee-shee, was astounded to learn he had won the prize when he arrived in New York City to accept an achievement award of The Deafness Research Foundation.

"I?" he exclaimed when shown an Associated Press dispatch from Stockholm.

Assured by reporters there was no mistake, Von Békésy said he was very happy to win the prize. But he said he was uncertain what he would do with the money.

The secretary will extend the invitation for representatives of these schools to attend the next meeting of the committee.

After discussion of various nights of the week on which to meet, it was voted to meet on the third Thursday of any designated month. The next meeting will be held on Nov. 15. The month of December will be dropped as far as a meeting is concerned, and one will be held on Thursday, Jan. 18. Meetings will start promptly at eight P.M.

After various views were given on establishing an Admissions Committee for the fair, it was decided to table the matter for action at a future meeting after it had been further discussed with other interested personnel.

20 County Sub-Divisions To Share In Road Monies

Record Harrisburg Bureau—Twenty political subdivisions throughout Monroe County will share $20,280.03 in local road monies now moving to boroughs and townships within the county, a check with the State Department of Highways revealed yesterday.

The funds represent the second and final installment for the year under terms of an act authorizing payment of $30 million annually to municipalities throughout the state for construction and maintenance of streets, roads and bridges within the municipalities.

The monies, derived from the liquid fuels tax and apportioned directly to communities on a population-mileage basis, under normal circumstances would be about half of the annual total—but under the Governor's "money-to-work" program 90 percent of the total allocation rather than the usual 50 percent was forwarded to communities in the first payment in April.

It is the remaining ten percent of the annual allocation that is now being forwarded to Monroe County municipalities as follows:

Boroughs: Stroudsburg, $1,036.81; Delaware Water Gap, $132.79; East Stroudsburg, $1,310.64; Mount Pocono, $308.19.

Townships: Barrett, $1,258.75; Chestnut Hill, $1,499.86; Coolbaugh, $770.14; Eldred, $933.26; Hamilton, $1,751.75; Jackson, $1,082.49; Middle Smithfield, $1,690.99.

Paradise, $917.97; Pocono, $1,295.26; Polk, $1,447.23; Price, $264.13; Ross, $949.39; Smithfield, $1,098.46; Stroud, $1,692.73; Tobyhanna, $597.81; and Tunkhannock, $241.39.

Waring's 'Let Freedom Sing' At Eastburg High Sunday

"WHERE, oh where but in America?" So begins a song that has come to be identified with Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians; a song whose question is directly applicable to the latest Waring undertaking, the spectacular new production, "Let Freedom Sing," which comes to the East Stroudsburg High School gymnasium Sunday night at 8:15 p.m.

For where but in America would one find a musical organization the likes of the Waring entourage—voices, soloists, performers and instrumentalists, abetted by specially designed lighting and sound equipment? Where else could such an ambitious project come to fruition.

Certainly this new concert presentation has earned the definition pinned on it by one Waring associate: "the crowning triumph of Waring's master showmanship."

This admittedly adjectival appraisal of the production is based on the scope and size of "Let Freedom Sing," which is nothing short of immense—certainly as huge an undertaking as has ever crossed the country on the concert trails.

"Let Freedom Sing" is a portrait in sound and color of the American scene—past and present, touching on every lo-cale of the country—on its people, its cities, its small towns, its traditions. In short, a musical salute to the sights, sounds and spirit of America.

This major undertaking has been on the Waring drawing board for over a year—a year that has been the program planned and planned again until it met with the maestro's approval. The period saw audio engineers and electrical specialists perfecting a sound system and a lighting facility that is without peer in the concert field. The blueprints have taken more solid form and the show is on the road.

"Where but in America," indeed. And who but Fred Waring to steward such an offering!

Lackawanna Reaps Harvest

HARRISBURG (AP)—About $4,500 in commissions on state-purchased auto insurance was doled out to 20 private insurance brokers recently, the Property and Supplies Department said yesterday.

The state is prohibited by law from accepting the commissions and they are given to brokers designated by Andrew M. Bradley, secretary of property and supplies.

Robert L. Hagerich of Johnstown received the largest single payment, $750.

Lackawanna County brokers, each getting $125, were: Leo T. Foley, Moscow; James Knowles, Scranton; Aaron D. Goodman, Scranton; Edward J. Holan, Jessup; Nicholas Longo, Dunmore; Man, Levy & Nogli, Inc., Scranton; O. Peter Loretti, Dunmore; Anthony R. Matuszewski, Dickson City; Robert O'Malley, Olyphant; Joseph Shirra, Scranton; Joseph P. Sewack, Jessup; John Shaugnessy, Scranton; Paul J. Vanson, Dunmore; O'Donnell & Gibbons Agency, Scranton; Cosgrove Insurance Agency, Scranton; and Eugene F. Hickey, Scranton.

William McKinney, 40, his wife and five children left their home at Franklin R.D. 1 by auto yesterday. They plan to visit McKinney's brothers in Indianapolis, Ind., and Oregon before departing from Vancouver, B.C.

McKinney, who had been chief chemist at the Koppers Co. plant here, announced the move early last month. He said he was fed up with the American way of life, explaining:

"Our freedoms are being eroded and we are gradually becoming a socialistic state. It scares me to think of living here where there is a potential threat of severe inflation."

Schuck Slated To Die Monday

HARRISBURG (AP)—Pending last minute legal maneuvers Arthur G. Schuck, 44, of Baden, will die in the state's electric chair next Monday for a mistaken identity slaying in Beaver County.

Gov. Lawrence's office said Thursday it has no plans to delay the execution at Rockview.

"Presently there are no legal grounds for a reprieve or a stay," said Roy A. Schafer, Lawrence's secretary.

"As we look over the record the only thing left to him is a certiorari appeal to the State Supreme Court," he added.

Certiorari appeals are rarely granted. Certiorari involves a review of the record by the high tribunal to determine whether there is any compelling reason to delay the execution.

Schuck lost a previous appeal to the Supreme Court.

Schuck was convicted of first degree murder in the shooting of Vincent Quigley, 34, of Economy, April 27, 1958.

Also killed was William Engle, 44, of Ambridge. Angelina Pugliano, Quigley's girl friend, was wounded, but she recovered.

The state contended that Schuck waiting in ambush, opened fire on a car in which the three victims were riding, mistaking them for another couple.

'Let Freedom Sing!'

For many years America has listened to the beautiful music of Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians and enjoyed it along with the rest of the nation. The success of this great musical group has a special meaning to folks in this area, in that the Warings have been next-door neighbors for years and their influence on this section has been marked.

This Sunday at the East Stroudsburg Area Joint High School, Fred and his Pennsylvanians will present a unique concert that has been a full year in the making. Its title, "Let Freedom Sing," strikes a responsive chord in the area. There is no doubt that the concert will provide beautiful music for those who attend, but there are several other facets of it that have deep meaning locally.

For one thing, the proceeds of the concert, which is sponsored by the Varsity E Club, will be turned over to the Tom L. Waring Memorial Scholarship Fund, which was set up in the past year. Tom Waring, as all his neighbors know, was a man who was vitally interested in his community and spared no effort to make it a better place in which to live. His memory is dear to many folks in this section.

Following his death, the Tulsa Choir, which he had brought to this area a number of times, started the fund, which is designed to provide scholarships for worthy students at East Stroudsburg High School. The first such scholarship was awarded to a young lady of this year's graduating class, who is now enrolled at Kutztown State College. It is an admirable memorial to Tom Waring.

And, truly, what better way can we "let freedom sing" than by providing for the education of the future leaders of America? It follows the theme of America's great leaders of the past and the present, who were gifted with the wisdom and learning to make them great in the service of their country. What better foothold can we give our youth on the future of America than a good education?

Sunday's concert has a two-fold meaning for all residents of the area. By their attendance, they will be assured of an enjoyable musical interlude, and they will be assisting in building the youth of the area for the future in the memory of one of the area's loved citizens.

We should need no further reason to assure that the concert this Sunday will be a complete social and financial success!

Billboards On Highways

Recently, when Governor Lawrence signed into law Senate Bill No. 172, designed to preserve and safeguard historic buildings within Pennsylvania cities and towns, cheers went up—and rightfully so. It was high time that something be done to prevent the bulldozer's iron jaws from gobbling up spots with historical and cultural significance.

But some of us are never satisfied, and certainly there is room for more of the same with relationship to the Pennsylvania countryside. It has been said over and over that Pennsylvania has everything — mountains, lakes, rivers, waterfalls—and that its scenery is as varied and beautiful as any in the land. Well, then, what we'd like to do is to be able to see it.

Our new 41,000-mile interstate highway network, that the government is helping the various states to construct, was so threatened by the billboard boys that the United States Congress finally offered the states concerned a one-half per cent bonus for highway building if they would "control" the billboards. In effect, the federal government has had to bribe the states to protect their own scenic and historic spots. Fifteen states managed to meet the federal deadline and enact the needed legislation to collect their bounties. Pennsylvania is among those states.

However, federal billboard control is not much of a safeguard against creation of billboard jungles. This is so because the measure is so riddled with loopholes. But it is a step in the right direction and it is a step which ought to be extended by zoning restrictions and fostered by civic pride.

For the benefit of those who might have forgotten, let us ponder these thoughtful lines from the pen of Ogden Nash:

I think that I shall never see
A billboard lovely as a tree.
Perhaps, unless the billboards fall,
I'll never see a tree at all.

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Is Pennsylvania's November general election less than three weeks hence destined to be a "dress rehearsal" for all-important gubernatorial election year 1962 insofar as the Keystone State is concerned?

Many leaders on both sides of the fence around Capitol Hill are convinced the upcoming November 7 run-off unquestionably will provide a "sounding board" trend for next year.

In a sense this is somewhat of an oddity inasmuch as so-called "off year" elections, such as the November 7 affair where the only statewide offices at stake revolve around a seat on the State Supreme Court, characteristically have been referred to heretofore as "local jump-off squiggles" of little importance insofar as anything statewide or of national import are concerned.

Perhaps this has been largely due to the fact that Pennsylvania heretofore has reposed overbearing in the Republican column — with the result that the off-year elections have been almost "foregone conclusions."

Within the short space of the past half dozen years however this picture has changed drastically.

For example, the Pennsylvania GOP no longer has the near one million registration edge it enjoyed when it moved into the 1954 gubernatorial election — an election it lost notwithstanding its then tremendous margin.

Since those days Pennsylvania Republicans have consistently lost ground, considerable face, and their once vaunted registration edge.

In fact there isn't any GOP edge at all any more — rather the "edge" has swung in the direction of Pennsylvania donkey riders who when the final count is in, are expected to be ahead of their political counterparts to the tune of at least 125,000!

This in itself unquestionably is a somewhat "appalling" development — appalling when you stop to recall just how low down on the totem pole Pennsylvania Democrats were little more than a half dozen years ago!

Curiously perhaps, leaders of both parties are contending that a "victory" (by their respective party) next month will indeed be a "dress rehearsal" for next year.

It is interesting to note that they do not claim this if they go down to defeat!

In any event, it points up the serious vein in which the upcoming local elections in Pennsylvania are being taken by top party strategists — a decidedly unusual view and a marked departure from the past.

The record book clearly shows that GOP strength in the Keystone State, as it heads into the November 7 "locals," definitely is on the down slide, while Democrats are in just the opposite.

Perhaps at long last the "off year" local elections in boroughs, cities and townships are coming into their own insofar as the reflections and projections of statewide party leaders are concerned.

The nominally non-political statewide judgeship contests most certainly will be decided November 7 on the basis of local returns as "trail-alongs," rather than on the basis of the contests themselves.

It is this local sentiment which this year may bear out the predictions of politicians in both camps that next month may well be a dress rehearsal for 1962 — but also that portion they have omitted; that defeat may also be a dress rehearsal!

Smith Gals On HUAC

Members of Congress have received a petition from 252 students of Smith College who...

... object to the amount of control exercised by the United States House of Representatives over one of its standing committees, the House Committee on Un-American Activities. We suggest the rewording of the House's mandate in order to specifically limit the Committee's power of investigation to those matters concerning which Congress has full authority to legislate. There is a wide gulf between investigatory power and the actual exercise of that power.

Precisely what powers of investigation does Congress lack? The business of Congress is to legislate, and to legislate intelligently, Congress requires knowledge. In pursuit of such knowledge, Congressional committees hold hearings. Sometimes the hearings are interesting, valuable, even amusing; sometimes they are stupidly conducted and are very dull. Nevertheless, the hearings over the whole of American history, as the Smith gals must know, have proved invaluable.

The Smith young ladies say: "To date the House Committee has extended and abused its power. It has indulged in some irresponsible accusations under the protection of Congressional immunity. The right to dissent as well as that of orderly protest is any American's cherished freedom and inalienable right."

Everytime a Congressional committee has had before it a Communist, there are those who insist that the Committee exceeded its powers; but when a committee had before it such financiers as J. P. Morgan, no one protested.

Congressman Edwin B. Dooley, replying to one of the girls who happens to be a constituent of his, wrote:

"... the House quite properly declines to exercise control over 'particular inquiries.' The sheer volume of legislation to be considered would by itself preclude such an arrangement."

Besides, what might otherwise at first glance seem like a lack of control over committee activities is in reality the essence of our committee structure; the element of trust implicit in such an arrangement is the very foundation upon which the House and Senate conduct their daily order of business."

The gathering of data is very difficult. For instance, at present a Senate committee is investigating the relations between Jimmy Hoffa and Harry Bridges. The young ladies may feel that this is an invasion of the privacy of Hoffa and Bridges, two very powerful citizens who in time of war can, if they choose, imperil the transportation system of the country.

Hoffa has not been accused of Communist relationships; Bridges has. Hoffa is engaged in marginal, capitalism, investing his union's funds in various enterprises; Bridges is ideologically not associated with capitalism. How does it happen that these two are so close?

The answer is that in the politics of unionism, both Hoffa and Bridges are opposed to the current management of the AFL-CIO. Also Hoffa is antagonistic to the United States Senate. We have here then a combine which is dangerous in time of war because one party of it is suspected of association with international Communism and the other is in a rage against constituted authority. This is definitely a matter for Congressional investigation.

The young ladies may feel that there is nothing wrong with Hoffa and Bridges joining forces. Yet, if they knew the facts of labor politics, they would realize what a menace there is in this union of forces.

Representative Dooley made the point in his letter:

"It has been my experience that, more often than not, a specific legislative remedy is nowhere in sight when a committee commences an investigation. As a matter of fact, countless investigations by not only HUAC but other committees have revealed the adequacy of existing law if properly enforced, although this may not have been evident prior to an investigation."

This is too often overlooked by those who fail to realize that enforcement can become innocuous unless public opinion supports the law. But where does the public get the information? Newspapers do not possess the power of subpoena; in fact, they are so limited by libel laws that they often cannot serve the public.

It is necessary to have the power of subpoena to get certain specific information. Should a reporter ask that question he will be told to go to the devil, but an investigator for a Congressional committee with the power of subpoena can get the information unless the person is willing to say, under oath, that to tell the truth will incriminate him.

The Allen-Scott Report

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — U.S. military and atomic experts are now warning that the current series of Soviet nuclear tests is the most significant ever conducted by Russia.

In the brief period of six weeks, the Soviets have tested a total of 25 nuclear devices in the atmosphere — or double the number exploded in any previous series.

Significantly, these Soviet tests represent one-fourth of the 99 nuclear explosions that the U.S. has detected inside the Soviet Union since the Russians began testing in 1949.

In comparison, the U.S. has conducted a total of 183 nuclear tests since 1945. However, only three of these tests have taken place since 1958 and these were conducted underground.

The Soviets are believed to have carried out dozens of other undetected and clandestine nuclear tests in recent years, although there is only circumstantial evidence of these concealed experiments.

The Soviet tests are also the "dirtiest" ever conducted by either the U.S. or Russia. All have emitted a high amount of radioactive fallout that is now appearing almost everywhere in the Northern Hemisphere.

These are the latest findings by a joint Air Force-Atomic Energy Commission evaluation committee that is gathering information on the current series of Soviet tests.

This unpublished evaluation, which is now being circulated among key members of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, reveals that the Soviets are beginning to close the gap with the U.S. in the development of smaller and more manageable superweapons.

It also states that the mass-testing program definitely has put the Soviets ahead of the U.S. in the vital field of developing warheads for antimissile missiles and anti-satellite missiles. In this crucial area, the U.S. has yet to fire its first nuclear warhead atop one of its missiles.

Of the Soviet tests, at least ten have been of anti-missile and anti-satellite weapons. This is indicated by the relatively low yields of the explosions — up to 200,000 feet — of these tests.

Terror Bombs — In addition to testing new weapons, the evaluation stresses that a major objective of the Soviet nuclear tests is their psychological effect on the people of the world.

It warns that the Kremlin is preparing a series of superweapons tests to try to shock the people of the world into believing that Russia has nuclear weapons and missile carriers that the U.S. cannot match.

The evaluation forecasts a major Soviet effort to hit the moon with a nuclear warhead before the end of the year in addition to tests of monster bombs ranging from 20 to 100 megatons.

As reported in this column on September 7, reliable Japanese sources with contacts on the China mainland reported to U.S. military intelligence that the Soviets plan to use the new Chinese Communist testing site in Tibet to detonate their monster bomb. Already, Khrushchev has confirmed these Chinese sources' report that, "This test is to take place either in October or November."

However, the use of this testing site for Khrushchev's big blast is doubted by the Central Intelligence Agency. While its agents confirmed the building of the new site in Chang Tang province on the great Plateau of Tibet, the CIA contends the 50-megaton bomb will be exploded at Novaya Zemlya in the Arctic region.

Regardless of site, if a nuclear bomb of such power is detonated 50 to 100 miles above the earth, its explosion flash, like the normal lights, would be visible for thousands of miles and in hundreds of countries throughout the world.

The explosion, with the destructive power equivalent to 50 million tons of TNT, might easily knock out radar, radio, TV and phone communications around part of the globe.

Looking Forward — In the "New Terminology" dictionary published by the Chinese Communists, the term "neutralist line" is defined as follows: "This is day-dream and can never be realized. Even its theory is not correct. As the world situation stands today, there are only two roads — either to support capitalism or to support socialism — and there is no third road. Any vain hope to take on a third road is doomed to failure." Since 1956, Premier Khrushchev has made 142 threats to annihilate more than 20 different countries, according to a State Department study. The U.S. expects new aid requests soon from both Syria and Egypt. President Nasser would like to have it on a three-year basis.

Prejudice is a great time saver; you can form opinions without bothering to get the facts.

A father was berating his son who was fooling around instead of doing his homework.

"When Abraham Lincoln was your age," the father lectured, "he walked ten miles to school every day and then studied by the light of the fire in his log cabin."

"So what?" the son replied. "When John Kennedy was your age he was president."

Many Tributes Paid President

Vacation Bureau Honors Altier

THE POCONO Mountain Vacation Bureau paid tribute to its reigning president William Altier "for his devotion and diligence of duty" last night at the annual dinner meeting of the organization at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Altier was hailed as the only man to retain the presidency for three years in succession. He was recently elected to serve another term as head of the PMVB.

The dinner brought together scores of personalities representing businessmen, resort owners and others concerned with the Pocono Mountains as one of the East's best vacationlands.

In a more humorous gesture, Eric Danisch, president of the Top of the Poconos Association, presented Altier with a pair of boxing gloves as a "champion and fighting man who does everything good for the organization."

On the gloves were inscribed the words "Bill" and "PMVB 1959-61."

Altier jokingly quipped: "I don't need them."

Along with the gloves, a check was presented to the president. The monies were contributed from the various members of the PMVB for the President's Gift Fund.

A note attached to the check read: "You can't keep a good man down . . . for post performance and future bouts."

The dinner climaxed a busy day in which the various committees of the organization held meetings.

Altier pointed out that there is no truth to a report that the PMVB would move from its present location as of now. He did say, however, that by Nov. 1, the group will know whether the PMVB should relocate to a new address or remain at their location but under expanded facilities.

To Attend Dedication

About 25 members of the unit pledged to attend the Stroudsburg Thruway dedication on Monday when Gov. David Lawrence will be the main speaker.

New officers of the group were introduced. They were Eric Schuchard, first vice president; Mrs. Ella Vannatta, second vice president; Jack Dunlop, treasurer; Natalie Eschenbach, secretary and Clarence Rutt, promotional manager.

In report of the promotion committee, the group was told that 44 new members have been signed. This brings the total to 230 from the previous high of 180 in 1960.

Promotion manager Rutt also pointed out the huge success of his travel shows in Hartford, New York City, Cleveland and other cities in the surrounding states.

Jack Shinn, of the Booth Committee, reported that the total inquiries for a period of May 26 to Sept. 4, 1961 reached 5,280—up 600 over last year—at the Delaware Water Gap Booth.

Slight Drop

The only other booth, at Wind Gap, showed the inquiries hit 1,366, a slight drop over last year. However, it was pointed out that brochures distributed at promotion shows may have caused the drop a bit.

In February, 1961, the PMVB moved its offices from 723 Main St. to 1018 Main St., Stroudsburg but in spite of the new location just outside the central part of town, inquiries surpassed last year. The office serviced 737 off-the-street inquiries from January 1 to September 12.

The committee reported July as the highest month for inquiries. For the four summer months, they read: May and June 232; July 678 and August 456.

The PMVB sponsored Laurel Blossom Festival, most because of the work of Robert Ahnert and E. C. Jenkins, as co-chairmen and under a complete new concept, was hailed as a complete success.

Sally Ferber was praised for directing the program, one of the biggest events in the Poconos.

Another venture which was a success was the 12th annual Hotel and Restaurant Show which showed a profit of $2,800. Approximately 3,000 attended the event at the Penn-Stroud Hotel last April.

Altier reported that because of the increase of work and the expanding of the PMVB, hereafter co-chairmen will be placed on each committee. Heretofore only one person had to handle the many tasks of each committee.

Lawrence Will Speak At ESSC

GOV. DAVID L. Lawrence will speak at an assembly of East Stroudsburg State College students at 11:15 a. m. today on the Normal Hill campus.

He is also expected to tour the campus and confer with top administrative officials.

Lawrence will be making his first visit to the local institution.

Invited By Dr. Koehler

Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, college president, said last night he wrote Lawrence, inviting him to visit the campus while in town for the dedication of the last two links of the Stroudsburg Thruway next Monday.

Because of a rigid schedule next Monday, Lawrence informed the college head he could not visit the campus at that time, then said he would be happy to visit it today.

Lawrence is expected to attend a library conference at Pocono Manor Inn before coming here.

'Summons' Passed Out By Police

POLICE in the boroughs of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg as well as the police at the toll bridge in Delaware Water Gap have been busy handing out "summons" to all out-of-state drivers as they enter the community.

The passing of safety "summons" is part of a drive being conducted in the area by police officers in cooperation with the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau and the AAA.

The summons is an enlarged replica of a traffic ticket and have printed on them eight suggestions to the tourists for safe driving.

Also listed on it is the phone number of the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg Control Center and the names of several AAA garages in the county.

The drive was started last weekend and will continue through this weekend.

Boy Scouts To 'Rescue' At Eastburg

A GROUP of Boy Scouts who are the official rescue crew for the City of Hazleton will present a demonstration at 7:30 p. m. Monday, Oct. 30, at the fire tower on Day St., East Stroudsburg.

They are members of Explorer Post 15, sponsored by Christ Lutheran Church, Hazleton, and range in age from 14 to 18.

They are making their appearance here at the invitation of Chief Clarence Strunk of Acme Hose Co. No. 1, East Stroudsburg, who learned of their unusual position at a fire school in Lehigh Valley at which Strunk was an instructor.

Officials and firemen from all Monroe County political subdivisions and Boy Scout leaders from throughout the area have been invited to the demonstration. The general public is also welcome.

CD Sponsor

Civil Defense personnel have also been invited to attend. The Hazleton unit is CD sponsored, in addition to its scout and church affiliations.

Strunk said last night that it is his hope that the demonstration will inspire formation of a similar group here. He is particularly interested in getting an Explorer Post to take over rescue operations, since East Stroudsburg already has a rescue truck which is housed with the borough's fire equipment.

In addition to attendance at the Lehigh Valley fire school, the Hazleton post is currently undergoing a 15-week training course conducted by the Hazleton Fire Dept. The unit has been in existence for about two years.

The group of 16 young men is expected to arrive here between 6:30 and 7 p. m. and will be entertained by the borough after the demonstration.

Yetter Says Okay Given For Road

REP. Van D. Yetter has announced that authorization has been given to the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to build a temporary, two-lane blacktop road from the terminus of present construction by the J. H. The estimated cost of the project, which is about 300 feet in length, is $15,000. The temporary road will obviate the necessity of doubling back to the West Main St. interchange.

Dear Abby

Sauce For The Goose...

Dear Abby: Why should women knock themselves out trying to keep slim and trim while their husbands let themselves go to the dogs? When we were married, Ron weighed 155. (He is only 5 ft. 6 in.). Now, only 15 years later, he weighs over 200 and looks like an overstuffed pig. He is ruining the furniture by dropping his weight on the chairs and sofa with a thud. He puffs and pants his way to the table, and burps his way back when he is through gorging himself. Any suggestions?

FAT MAN'S WIFE
Dear Wife: If you love your husband, you'll shame, bribe or scare him into sloughing off the snout and joining the human-looking race. For a clincher, your insurance agent will gladly tell him about the correlation between calories and coronaries.

Dear Abby: My husband and I moved into my aunt's house so I could take care of her. She is an invalid. She has a very nice house and she pays all the bills, which makes it easy for us. I forgot to tell you we have four children—5, 6, 8, and 9. The reason we went for this set-up is because she told me that if I moved in with her and took care of her, when she died she would leave her house and everything else she had to me. She is 82 years old, and her health is poor. My husband says I should ask her to put her promise in writing. Should I?

A DEVOTED NIECE
Dear Niece: It seems to me that you, your husband and four children have a pretty good deal while your aunt is living. But if you are caring for her now only because of what she has promised you after she passes on, you had better ask her to speak to her attorney about making a will.

Dear Abby: Please tell me what to do. I am a grandmother in love with a grandfather. He is a fine gentleman, in good health, and we are of the same faith. I know he cares for me, but he keeps telling me that "we are too old for marriage." He has no family obligations as his children are married and well off. I am in the same situation. He doesn't need my money, and I don't need his. We like the same things, and have a wonderful time together. Should I propose?

GRAY HAIR—BLUE

FUTURE
Dear Gray: Yes. If you are young enough for "love" you aren't too old for marriage.

Confidential To Jerry: If you can't get RID of her—get USED to her.

What's troubling you? Write Abby, care of Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Include self-addressed stamped envelope.

Flu Vaccine Most Sought At Swiftwater Company

Last of two-part series on research program which will grow bigger at National Drug Co. laboratories at Swiftwater. Recent government $3,000,000 grant insures firm one of the biggest research programs in the nation.

By JIM SHAFER
Daily Record Reporter

THE VACCINE sought most at the National Drug Company Laboratory in Swiftwater is flu vaccine.

There are many types of flu, such as Asian, European and those with animal names. The vaccine for each type of flu is started with a common beginning—the egg. The company purchases eggs that are 11 days old and starts from there.

Upon arrival at the laboratory the eggs are candled to assure that the embryo is alive. Once this is proven the eggs are washed with a sterile solution and a small hole made in the large end of the egg. It is through this hole the germ is injected.

Seal Hole
The next step is to seal the hole and place the egg in an incubator for three days. After 14 days have passed the egg is ready for harvest.

The eggs are brought to the harvest room where they are candled again to see if the embryo is still alive. Those that have died are discarded.

The skilled workers "knock off" the large end to expose the liquid for the operator to remove with a vacuum operated tube. The liquid is drained into a five gallon jug. Following the withdrawal of the liquid it is run through a double strain to sieve out any foreign material that might have gotten into the liquid or the jug.

Next Operation
The next operation is to run the liquid through a steam driven centrifuge, or separator, at 50,000 revolutions per minute. The liquid traveling at this speed forces the serum used in making the vaccine into a stainless steel tube in the center of the pump. The rest of the liquid becomes waste.

From here on the serum is added to various chemicals to make the finished product. Another means of obtaining the basic material for a serum for tetanus, antitoxoid or toxoid is the horse.

Here the horse is injected with the germ and after a period of time its blood is drawn and then reduced to the substance needed to manufacture the finished product.

A point stressed here by Russell Knerr, director of the laboratory, is that the animals used to obtain a basic ingredient for a finished product are not mistreated in any way.

He said, the horses used here are given the best of care and treatment. Each one represents approximately $2,000 to the company.

"Common sense will tell you that no one takes an animal that represents that much to them and mistreats or misuses it," he concluded.

Another method used to obtain a finished product is to take a rabbit and inject rabies into its brain. Then after a period of time the animal is sacrificed and its brain removed.

It is then ground up into what resembles a paste and a chemical added, placed in a container. Here it waits for a call to be used in the saving of a person's life.

To Market Others
With the addition of the new research building at a cost of $1,900,000 on the present property, it is the aim of the company to market other vaccines, tetanus, antitoxoids and toxoids for both military and civilian uses.

The new building will be constructed on a portion of the land presently used as the horse pasture. The pasture is visible from Route 611.

The federal government will house approximately three-quarters of a million dollars in equipment in the building and will do extensive research before marketing the product for civilian use.

Knerr said, "When the building is completed and the additional employees—about 50—to work, Monroe County will have some of the most prominent people in the field of medical research."

Young People's Help Needed

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The preservation of progressive, good government in America depends partly on the young people of Pennsylvania. Gov. Lawrence said Thursday.

"The effort to insure better government for Pennsylvania citizens depends, in a large part for its impetus and its drive, upon the young people...who will go on to greater political power in the years to come," Lawrence told a Chatham College assembly.

Stroud Union's Teachers' In-Service Training Today

TEACHERS of the Stroud Union District will hold a day of in-service training today.

Elementary teachers will meet at the Arlington Heights School. Their program will center around the theme, "The Evaluation and Use of Test Results".

Dr. Agatha Townsend, reading consultant for the Stroud Union elementary schools, is in charge of the entire program.

Miss Frieda Wahmann, elementary consultant of the Allentown School District, will assist with the program. Miss H. Eloise Bryan, psychologist in Stroud Union schools, will also aid, as well as John Haddon, speech correctionist.

The morning session will be devoted to talks by Miss Wahmann, Dr. Townsend, and Miss Bryan. The afternoon session will be a workshop-type program in which the teachers who have made a case study of one of their children will apply the techniques of the use of test results in placing children in the proper reading groups.

Elementary teachers have been studying and will be working this year on the utilization of test results and other information available to them.

Dr. Townsend has observed all reading classes in the district and has met with the teachers of the various schools in individual meetings.

The in-service meeting will bring together many of the observations which Dr. Townsend has made regarding the reading program. Teachers in the Stroud Union

High School will hold their sessions in the high school building. The morning program will be divided into two parts, the first being devoted to meetings of teachers in their various departments, with respective department heads being in charge.

The second part of the morning session will feature a film and discussion on new ideas of programming the modern secondary school, this phase moving under the direction of the principal, Alfred W. Munson.

The afternoon portion of the high school teachers' program will be devoted to hearing Dr. Peter Knowlton, psychiatrist of the Philadelphia Child Guidance Clinic. Dr. Knowlton will have as his subject the teaching of boys and the problems associated therewith, basing his observations on his long experience with young people and commenting on much data relative to Stroud Union High School boys and girls and their performance over a period of years.

These data were prepared by the principal, the assistant principal, Samuel O. Wells, III, and the guidance counselor, Raymond R. Serfass, as well as actual case studies for Dr. Knowlton's analysis. A discussion period will follow Dr. Knowlton's presentation.

Camel Driver Meets Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A camel driver from Pakistan and an exile skinner from Missouri traded banter yesterday as Bashir Ahmad met with Harry S. Truman. Bashir, who had accepted the invitation of Vice President Lyndon Johnson to visit the United States, called on the former president at the Harry S. Truman Library in nearby Independence, Mo.

Dressed in his long, black frock coat, the camel driver from Karachi smiled broadly as he shook hands with Truman, noted in his youth for plowing a straight furrow with a span of mules.

If you're like most women, you're too busy to let the weather regulate your washdays! It just doesn't make sense to let family laundry pile up while you scan the skies for clear weather—and then cross your fingers that you won't have to sprint to the line to bring in half-dry clothes.

Of course, there was a time when you had no other choice. But today, a Flameless Electric Clothes Dryer solves the weather problem. Rain or shine—morning, noon or night—it dries your clothes quickly, gently, safely. Actually, it's better than sunlight! Strong sunlight reduces attractive colors to washed out shades. Plans for the retreat were completed during the meeting of the MYF at the Hemlock Grove Church at which Donna Bartleson presided.

Sleep Cheats Ex-E-Burger Of Seeing 1st Port Of Call

(This is another in a series of articles by Jack Gelinas, former East Stroudsburg resident, who is an executive with Mobil Petroleum Products in Africa.)

By Jack Gelinas

MALI Republic—former French Sudan — on the buckle of the River Niger, late morning of the second day, having boarded the Gallieni two nights before (two hours before our scheduled time of arrival at Kabara, 'the port of Timbuctoo') — Sleep was too much with me the dark morning of ten past five yesterday and cheated me of seeing Bourem, our first 'port of call'. I have consoled myself since by rationalizing that it would have been too dark to see anything, much, anyway. This hasn't as yet, however, eased the indignation of my other senses.

So it is understandable that when twelve hours and some minutes later we grounded to a stop at Bamba on the rim of the Sahara that I should already be on the roof of the barge — waiting. It was here that the view would be best. It was a box-seat.

It was royal box I soon decided. It was as though I were some mad king in the center of a theatre and the extravaganza I was witnessing was being performed just for me.

A small stretch of beach was the stage. A few thorny trees and two, one-story, match-box shaped dwellings of sun-baked mud, the back-drop.

Place Serene

As we approached, the place was serene. There were few people on shore, and these few appeared as though still away by the old Gallieni after twenty-five seasons. Or, maybe it was the tug that coughed and gurgled like a sick camel that awed them. I don't know. I do know that this must have been the highlight of their week, because before we pulled away their numbers seemed to have multiplied ten-fold — the entire village and those living over the crest of a sandy knoll beyond had come to see.

At first they stood watching, nearly motionless. But the moment we anchored everything came alive. New passengers crowded and pushed to come on. A few others crowded and pushed to get off. And the near frenzy that comes with trade in this part of the world blossomed.

The only people of Bamba who didn't show some evidence of excitement, or engage themselves in busy activity, were a small group of noble-women who arrived later than the rest. They stood waiting and watching with their slaves for a shipment they had ordered from some far off place. Nothing else mattered to them — or, if it did, they would never show it.

They were majestic in both appearance and carriage. Truly noble. They carried spears and their slender bodies were draped in deep indigo. Some wore gold rings in their noses. The men stayed further in the background in the shadow cast by one of the beige dwellings. They sat on horseback. They were colorfully dressed and turbaned. Their horses beautifully kept.

Two heavy bags of dates were put off.

As we departed from these people, all became quiet at Bamba again. I couldn't resist shouting after them as they turned to vacate the shore — Sallaam-alaikum, or, May Allah be with you!

Then at 11:15 last evening we reached our third and last scheduled stop enroute before Kabara. Even before the steward had stopped pounding on my door — I had asked him to wake me when we reached Gourma-Rharous — I was fully awake, out of my bunk and was putting on my shoes. Sleep may have robbed me of Bourem, but it wasn't going to deprive me again, especially not after having seen and possessed Bamba in the late afternoon.

I threw a blanket over my head, as the desert night can be cold, and raced outside. I ran to the stern and stumbled up the metal-rod ladder to my watching place. The Captain and the purser were already on shore. A large spotlight was trained on them from the barge. We took on a few more passengers. No passenger got off.

In about ten minutes transactions which took the Captain ashore were completed. Money was paid and the Captain turned over a delivery of seven two-hundred pound bags of dates and two large sacks of sugar to three white-robed desert merchants. Four pack-camels stood just outside the small circle of spotlight.

Sleep didn't come easy after Gourma-Rharous. I had too much to think about — for today we'll arrive at Kabara, 'the port of Timbuctoo', Allah willing!

Today, as yesterday, I see the mighty river getting mightier. She is never wild, nor turbulent; not in these far reaches anyway. Here she has a calm strength — the only thing in nature that dares to oppose the terrible Sahara. She is the Mother womb of the Sudan.

They tell me that sometimes and seasons she is too generous to measure from bank to bank, as she floods the whole horizon, being as much as 25 miles wide. But still she is a dawdling, leisurely river, taking a year and a half to follow her course from source to sea. Is it any wonder that in a dozen or more native tongues her name can be translated to mean the same, "Mighty, great river?"

THE PEOPLE OF BAMBA, a small desert village on the buckle of the River Niger—some crowding to board, others crowding to trade with the passengers of the tug-towed barge, "Gallieni." (Gelinas Photo)

Heard Of Hippos

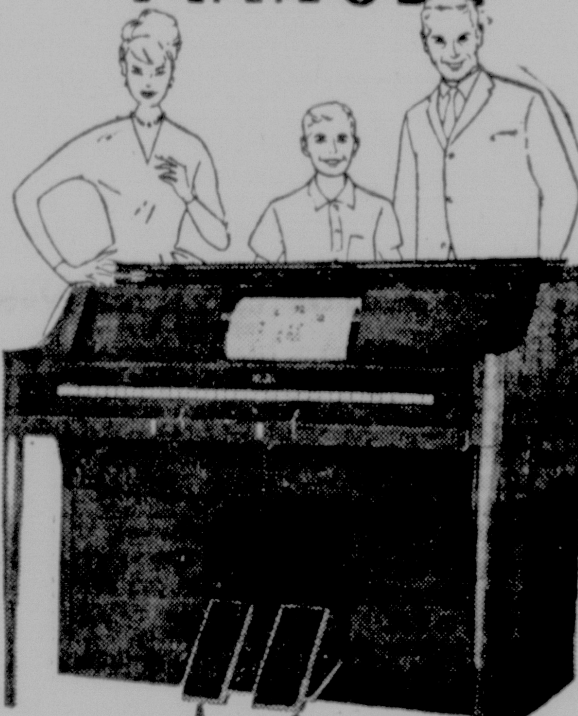

Soon after breakfast this morning a small herd of hippos stuck their huge, square snouts above the marshy, brown-green waters of the shoreline to our starboard. And then, almost as quickly as they had come, as though having satisfied their curiosities, they submerged themselves again. They were the first we had seen. Fishing is poor when the river is high, but occasionally the temporary hut of a family of fishermen breaks the flatness of the landscape. They wait patiently, knowing fishing will soon be good again.

The steward has just informed me that lunch is ready. He added that I best hurry, as "we are scheduled to arrive at Kabara in less than an hour". Yes, somewhere across that sandy waste, around that bend, lies Timbuctoo. And it looks as though we're going to make it. But I still have my fingers crossed.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

So far your suggestions about what to do about me and my mice have been interesting but not too practical. The most practical was the suggestion to get another cat, but however derelict our present cat may be in his duty for the moment, his former years of faithful service deserve some consideration.

Kay Tarr offered to lend me their cat — but it happens to be one they are very fond of and a diet of partially poisoned mice might not agree with him.

One of the most elaborate suggestions was to fill an apple butter kettle with water to within four inches of the top, sprinkle the water with sawdust and grated cheese and prop a board against it as a ramp. The person who tried it swears that the mice form in line to go up the ramp, jump down on the seemingly solid sawdust and drown.

Thank goodness I don't have an apple butter kettle because I doubt if I'd ever go to sleep if I were waiting for the splashes indicating another victim — and I'd hate to wake up to the task of facing an apple butter kettle full of drowned mice.

A temporary solution might be to lay a trail of cheese and cereal leading outdoors so that the mice be lured out to see what they are missing by way of weather. Trouble is who knows what other animals might follow the trail the other way, and besides it gets chilly at night.

Then a couple of mothers whose small boys have been coaxing for white mice offered to lend them to me to try their hand at housebreaking mice. The trouble there is that small boys eat more than mice and besides they have to have it cooked.

Come, now, you can come up with some better ideas than those!

Mountaineers Meet Whitehall

First Quarter Will Tell-Stulgaitis

STROUD UNION High School coach Jerry Stulgaitis feels that tonight's game with Whitehall will be decided in the first quarter.

"Whitehall's a great front running club," says Stulgaitis. "Once they get ahead, they're world beaters. But if you get ahead of them, they fold."

Stulgaitis also believes that if his team plays the type of football it is capable of, it can beat Whitehall.

Best Practice
"We had our best practice of the year Tuesday," says Stulgaitis, "and the boys are ready for Whitehall."

Stulgaitis was pleased with the Mounties inside game Tuesday. "We have been working all season to develop our inside running game," Stulgaitis adds, "and Tuesday the backs were flying through the holes and getting in the clear."

Except for an hour-long inside meeting, Stulgaitis gave the squad a rest Wednesday. Stulgaitis felt that since many of his players were bothered by colds a day off would help. There has been only one major offensive change for tonight but Stulgaitis continues to mix his defensive team.

"This is the sixth defensive team I've tried," explains Stulgaitis, "I hope that we'll find the right combination soon."

New Position

Bill Queenan is the only player in a new offensive position. Queenan has been switched from end to offensive tackle, replacing Bill Morse, who fractured his elbow last week.

Queenan will return to his end post on defense, with Bob Nonnenmacher at the other flank. The tackles will be Don Metzgar and Terry Lee, with Bill Hardy and Bob Hickey at guards. Henry Ray and Harry McClintock are the linebackers, with Tom Schatzman, Warren Loney and Jack Kist in the defensive secondary.

Lee is new to the defensive starting team and Hickey is a converted tackle. McClintock and Imbt have alternated between linebacker and halfback.

If the Mounties' inside running game works against Whitehall, it will take the pressure off Loney. With the inside game stopped for most of the year, Loney has had a choice between only passing and end sweeps.

Most of the Mountie opponents were able to contain the end runs in the second half, after making defensive changes and that left Loney with only passes.

Great Pass Year
Loney has had a great year passing. However, if he can get a third attack moving tonight, he should have an easier time throwing. If the inside attack fails, the Mounties will have to go back to desperation passes.

When the Mounties beat Palmerton 13-0 three weeks ago, the inside game worked and since Palmerton tied Whitehall 0-0, there is no reason not to believe that an inside game won't go tonight.

Stroud Union has won only once in five starts this year but Stulgaitis is worried about the record.

"We're as ready for Whitehall as we have been all season."

Lewis' Arm Better

ESSC Quarterback Woes Improve; Sierer Returns

THE quarterback problem at East Stroudsburg State College improved greatly Thursday.

First unit quarterback Bill Lewis is still sidelined with an injured right arm but the arm is responding rapidly to treatment.

And Charlie Sierer, second team leader came back to school Thursday night after a four day absence. Sierer was called home earlier after his father was injured in an automobile accident.

Warrior coach Jack Gregory is not certain if Lewis will be able to play against Cheyney Saturday but said he would use the Bristol junior if the arm is improved after heat treatments today. If the arm is only partially healed, Lewis may still be able to handle the punting duties.

Will Get Chance
Sierer will get a chance at the first unit job at practice today and although he missed almost a full week's work, Gregory feels he can handle the job.

However, not all the news was good Thursday. Sophomore end Ray Uhl of East Stroudsburg will miss the Cheyney game and will not know for another week, when he can return to action. Uhl received a concussion in practice Tuesday.

Mel Williams, a senior from Kingston, will take over Uhl's spot.

Bangor To Pick Queen For H'Coming

THE Homecoming Queen of the Bangor Area Joint High School will be crowned at the Bangor-Nazareth game on Friday evening, October 27.

The senior class nominated the following girls as candidates last week: Carolyn Abbott, Carolyn Creighton, Judy Luscombe, Karen Godshalk, Audrey Meyer, Judy Schultz, Cathi Price, and Karen Strout.

Elections will be held this Friday, October 20. All senior high school students will vote for the Homecoming Queen and two attendants.

Alumni of Bangor Area Joint High School are urged to attend this annual Homecoming event. The Bangor Area Joint High School Band will present a special half-time show.

Purdue Coach Is Improving

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — The condition of Purdue Coach Jack Mollenkopf remains good and he likely will be able to return to the helm of the Boilermaker football team in two to three weeks, a hospital spokesman reported Thursday.

Mollenkopf was operated on Wednesday for a benign condition in his lower abdomen. Surgery followed an extensive examination at the Mayo Clinic.

Kaline Gets AL Comeback Crown; Nat's Donovan 2nd

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers, who increased his batting average 46 points while rebounding from his poorest American League season, was named the circuit's comeback player-of-the-year for 1961 Thursday.

Kaline received 23 votes. Dick Donovan, Washington pitcher, was a close second with 18 followed by Norm Cash of the Tigers, 16 and Elston Howard of New York and Rocky Colavito, Detroit, 13 each.

A total of 156 baseball writers participated in the annual Associated Press poll and 27 players collected votes.

Kaline, 26-year-old outfielder, finished second among the qualifiers for the batting title with a .324 average. He hit 19 homers and drove in 82 runs. He had a 22-game hitting streak, from July 6 through Aug. 1, second in the majors behind Minnesota's Lennie Green, who had 24.

Youngest Player

In 1960, Kaline finished with a .278 batting mark with 15 homers and 68 RBI. He is the youngest player ever to have won the junior league's batting crown. He did it in 1955 as a 20-year-old.

Donovan had a 10-10 record for the last-place Senators. He pitched 169 innings. The 33-year-old right-hander lost his first five games, all by one run, then recovered to win nine of his next 12.

Washington obtained him in the expansion draft from the Chicago White Sox for whom he worked only 79 innings in 1960, winning six and losing one.

Cash won the batting championship with a .361 average. He also piled up 41 homers and 132 runs batted in. In 1960 he hit .286 with 18 home runs and 63 RBI. Howard boosted his average 103 points, from .245 in 1960 to .348. However, he was ineligible for the title with fewer than 502 total appearances. He wound up with 482.

In Detroit, Kaline said he was surprised he won the award.

"I didn't realize I was being considered," said the outfielder who makes Detroit his year-round home. "I'm happy I won it, of course, but I didn't think I had that bad a year in 1960."

Automobile Accident

Steel Plate Doesn't Slow Conference's Top Scorer

By CURT PRINS
Sports Editor
Stroudsburg Record

EAST STROUDSBURG, Pa. (AP) —Every time East Stroudsburg State College halfback Toby Barkman scores a touchdown, he also scores a personal triumph.

Barkman has scored eight touchdowns this season, which makes him the leading scorer in the Pennsylvania State College Conference, the second high point man in state college football and the fourth ranked scorer in small college football in the country.

Toby Barkman

Less than three years ago, the 19-year-old Chester, N. J., sophomore was in critical condition in a New Jersey hospital after being struck by an automobile while crossing a street.

The automobile knocked Barkman 90 feet, broke two vertebrae, and both the bones in his lower right leg, and scraped a great deal of skin off his face and the back of his hands.

Only three hours before the accident, Barkman received permission from his doctor to walk without the crutches he used for three months following a knee operation for a football injury.

On Critical List

For several days after the accident Barkman was in shock and on the critical list. For two weeks he was not allowed visitors.

When he left the hospital a month later, he had a six-inch steel plate and six screws in his right leg, and more than 70 stitches in his leg, face and hands. He also had the crutches again. This time it would be 11 months before he could get rid of them.

Doctors were doubtful Barkman could ever play football again, but when the cast was removed from his leg, the breaks had healed so quickly they changed their minds. He missed his senior year of high school football because he was still on crutches.

In his junior year, the 5-11, 170 pounder, scored 15 touchdowns, and was selected on the New Jersey All-State Team.

Barkman's leg recovered enough in the spring of his senior year, however, to allow him to participate in track. Barkman ran in the sprint events and turned in a 10 second clocking in the 100-yard dash in his final meet.

Several large schools approached Barkman about football scholarships before the accident, but now no one wanted a halfback with a six-inch steel plate in his right leg.

Visited School

Barkman visited East Stroudsburg State several times with a friend and decided to apply for admission. He first checked with the school's football coach, Jack Gregory, to see if he could go out for football. Gregory gave Barkman a chance and that's all the halfback wanted.

By the third game last year, Barkman earned a starting job on the varsity team. He ended the year tied for the lead in scoring, and was second in ground gaining. He was fifth in the conference in scoring and his two fourth period touchdowns helped beat Bloomsburg 21-20.

This season, Barkman scored two touchdowns in each of the Warriors' games except West Chester and Mansfield. His 57-yard run off tackle was the only touchdown scored by East Stroudsburg against West Chester. He finished the game with 130 yards in 13 carries.

Earns Praise

Against Mansfield, Barkman gained 210 yards and scored a touchdown.

Mansfield coach Ed Steinac called Barkman the best back his team had faced.

Barkman has scored all his touchdowns on runs and only two were less than 10 yards. He also plays full time on defense, kicks off and gets downfield on punts so quickly that he has not had a runner get by him this year.

Barkman comes from a football family. His brother had a brilliant high school career and his father, Ralph, was a star at Albright College in 1929.

Daugherty Comfortable

Place - Kicking May Decide Spartan - Notre Dame King

By BOB VOGES

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The extra point kicker could be the hero in this football fight between top-ranked Michigan State and Notre Dame Saturday.

To some it seemed almost cruel—the efficient way the MSU extra point expert boomed them in against Michigan last Saturday to make the 28-0 total.

Once the touchdown was made, Art Brandstatter went to work. The senior end from East Lansing approached the ball with the confidence of a man knowing his job well.

He gave a nod to the center, an "OK" to the holder and went back the exact number of feet needed for the football to split the goal posts.

Missed Kicks Hurt
The last time Notre Dame beat Michigan State, 20-1 in 1954, it was because of missed kicks.

This was Duffy Daugherty's first year as head coach and his assistants were very green.

The game was played in a downpour that made the mud in the Notre Dame stadium almost ankle deep.

Each team made three touchdowns. But twice the assistant coach forgot to send in a kicking tee.

Fullback Jerry Planutis dug one ball out of the mud for an extra point but missed the two extra points because of lack of a tee.

Brandstatter has missed one this season—that in the mud at Wisconsin. Against Stanford he hit three for three on extra points and also ran the ball in for a two point conversion.

"It gives you a comfortable feeling to have him around," said Daugherty somewhat smugly.

American Horse In London Race

Midsummer Night II, owned by Paul Mellon of the Rokeby Farms stud in Virginia, won the mile and a furlong race last year from a field of 39 other runners.

Cavs' QB May Miss Wilson Go

EAST STROUDSBURG High quarterback Jack Van Horn may miss Saturday night's game with Wilson Boro at Memorial Stadium.

The junior quarterback is out of school with the flu and a 102 deg. fever. However, Cavalier coach Jack Kist believes that Van Horn will be available Saturday.

"The only thing I'm worried about," says Kist, "is how strong he'll be."

If Van Horn is not strong enough to go all the way, sophomore Doug Hillyard and Jim Steele, a junior, will take over the load. Steele is a halfback but Kist has been working him at quarterback during practice.

Stann Uncertain

Kist is still not certain of 230-pound tackle Budd Stann will be able to play. Stann pulled a muscle in his arm three weeks ago and has only been in for one play in the last two games. Stann says that his arm is feeling much better this week but Kist still lists him as a doubtful player.

There has been only one switch in team personnel for Wilson, which is tied with Nazareth for the Lehigh-Northampton League lead. Pete Masner will play at defensive end in place of Earl Palmer. Palmer will keep the offensive spot.

Harold (Mac) Myers has switched defensive jobs. Myers was moved from his halfback spot to line-backer but will not be a starter. On offense, Myers will continue to run from halfback and fullback spots.

Bob Deiter and Brian Farris will be the starting line-backers for Kist. Farris has led the club in tackles the past two games.

Panther Coach Hopes That Passing Worries Are Over

By MURRAY CHASS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Coach John Michelosen looked forward Thursday to elimination of the passing problems plaguing Pitt's Panthers, and in the process, an end to the team's three-game losing streak against UCLA Saturday.

In its first four games, Pitt has been extremely weak on both pass offense and pass defense. Panther passers have completed 21 passes in 55 attempts for 229 yards and no touchdowns while opponents have thrown 32 good passes in 68 tries for 556 yards and six touchdowns.

Michelosen is relying heavily on junior Jim Traficant to change the offensive passing picture.

"I believe he can do the job," Michelosen said. "He's been throwing pretty well in practice. Until now, we just haven't had the good passes. I think the leg

Traficant injured before the season is okay.

Didn't Run

"He didn't run when he had the opportunity against West Virginia, and I talked to him about it. But you can't tell what he's going to do in a game until he does it. Injuries wind up in the mind more than anywhere else."

As for pass defense, Michelosen said:

"One of our major problems arises when one man tries to bolster another man in the secondary and leaves a receiver open. Our rush on the passer also has fallen down. We're in there and have a chance to get the quarterback, but we let him get away."

"We've worked on it, but it's sometimes hard to eliminate those lapses. That's a mental thing with an individual. You never can tell when the lapses will crop up."

Little Passing

UCLA (2-2) hasn't passed too much this season, but Michelosen expects to see more throwing on Saturday.

"Mike Haffner, their sophomore tailback, is just coming into his own," Michelosen said. "He had a real big game last week against Vanderbilt. With him in the game, we expect them to throw a lot more."

Michelosen has been heartened somewhat by the display of hustle in practice this week.

"The players have been running harder and have had a lot of zip and ginger. It's been nice to see. They're feeling up to playing a good game. I hope, I would think they're not as bad as they looked against West Virginia."

LIMITED BUDGET—Coach Fritz Brennecke of the Colorado School of Mines football team has to cut financial corners. For instance he usually gets his scouting reports from out-of-town newspapers.

British Excited That Judo Will Be On Olympic Roster

By GREGORY MILLER

LONDON (AP) — Britain's growing number of judo enthusiasts are excited over Japan's move to have the sport placed on the schedule of the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

"We are glad it was approved," says John Capes, secretary of the British Judo Association (BJA).

"We would certainly want to send a team, and I am confident we would do well. It will be a great honor to send a team to the land that gave judo to the world."

Since World War II, interest in judo has grown at an unprecedented rate in Britain.

Big Jump

The BJA was founded with 10 clubs in 1948 and about 250 members. Now there are 450 clubs and an estimated 35,000 members.

Britons have found judo an ideal sport. They hold classes in gymnasiums and church halls. Many British clubs have a mixed membership and some set aside special nights for women.

"I reckon about 1,000 girls are now interested in judo in England," says Capes. "We do everything we can to encourage them. I always tell them it's the best way to defend themselves against a man's unwelcome attentions."

Japanese judo star T. Kawamura rates Britain second to Japan in world judo.

"That's a wonderful compliment coming from a Seventh Dan of Japan," says Capes.

More Complicated

British judo has a more complicated grading system than Japanese judo. Novices start in the white kyu (student) grade and pass through six stages, each with its own colored belt, to the brown grade. Then they reach the black stage, which has 10 classifications.

No Break In Johnson's Leg

MONTREAL (AP) — An X-ray of Tom Johnson's ankle Thursday showed no sign of a break, but there still was no indication of how serious the injury may be, the Montreal Canadiens said.

The 31-year-old defenseman was hit in the ankle in Wednesday night's game between the Canadiens and the Rangers in New York.

Eagle Scout Tells Club Cowboys Not Same Team

THE Philadelphia Eagles, locked in a two-way tie with the New York Giants for the top spot in the National League's Eastern Conference, fly to Texas this weekend to battle Dallas' hard-riding Cowboys.

Kickoff is 3:30 p.m., Philadelphia time and the game will be televised back to the Philadelphia area over the CBS network. The game also will be aired over Radio Station WCAU.

The Birds were lucky to escape with a two-point win in Dallas a year ago, 27-25.

Local PP & K Contest Has 40 Entrants

SOME 40 boys from this area will compete locally in the "Punt, Pass & Kick" nationwide football competition Saturday at Gordon Giffels Field, says Jess F. Haynes, sponsor of the program here.

The program is for boys from six through 10 years old. All entrants have received a badge and a booklet on passing, punting and place-kicking tips by National Football League stars.

Judging and scoring in each event will be based on distance and accuracy, with one point for each foot the ball travels in the air, minus one point for each foot the ball lands to the right or left of a center line.

Follows President's Plan

"The objective of the program," says Haynes, "is to create interest in sports and physical fitness among American youngsters by giving them a chance to test competitively their skill in punting, passing and place-kicking. In addition, this competition will help to carry out the aims of the President's Council on Youth Fitness, by making it possible for young Americans to take part in a program of athletic competition."

Local winners will be named in five age groups. First place winners will have a chance to be selected as regional winners. Regional winners will be determined on scores in local contests. There will be 14 regional winners.

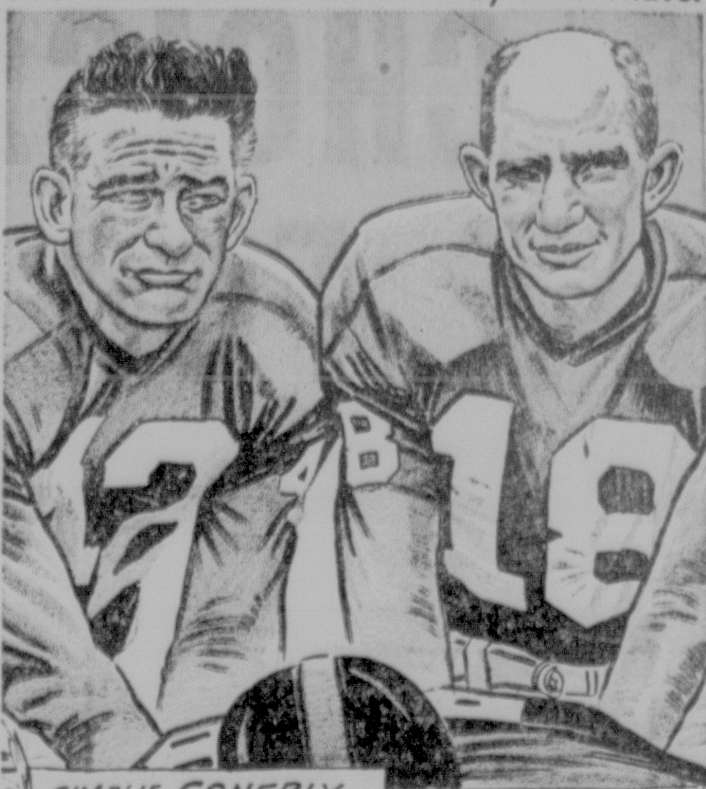

Winners of the regional championships in each age group will compete for national honors in a half-time show of an NFL game. The national champions will take part in the half-time ceremonies of the NFL championship game, Dec. 31 and will also receive a trip to Washington.
